Description
Heavy impact gloves for Lightsaber and Synthetic sword combat

Red Dragon Weapon Sparring Gloves are at the forefront of affordable hand protection for weapons based martial arts.

They were developed in conjunction with the HEMA community and contain many features only seen on gloves retailing at more than twice the price. The overlapping plastic finger plates ensure that the chance of a weapon making contact with your fingers is kept to a minimum, whilst providing maximum mobility. The combination of plastic protective plates and high impact shock absorbing foam provide a high level of protection from many types of blunt weapons typically used by martial artists.

The tough microfiber outer material provides long lasting protection and a level of durability not seen in traditional synthetic leather coverings.

The gloves were developed for protection against synthetic sparring weapons including Lightsabers.

Note: These gloves are not suitable for full speed steel sparring they are suitable for controlled steel sparring and drill work but will deteriorate faster than if being used with synthetic weapons.

Warning: Not suitable for use with sharp weapons of any type
